

Thanksgiving, 1969

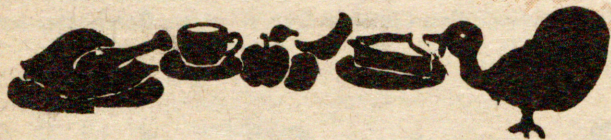

What do you have and hold dear that you can give thanks for? Tomorrow we have the opportunity to take time to pause and that's a time to answer the question.

No matter how unsettled and torn the world around us may be, we hope the answer for each one's personal life is one of peace, happiness and plenty.

LET'S GIVE OUR THANKS

Let's give thanks for our blessings,
On this Thanksgiving Day.
For things we take for granted,
That daily come our way.
Let's try to be more thoughtful,
Of everyone we know,
Our family, friends, and neighbors,
And folks met where we go.
Let's always do all that we can,
For our community,
At home, at school and in our church,
We'll strive on unity.
Let's stand behind our president,
His tasks are very great,
We elected him to office,
He will help to rule our fate.
Let's not forget our servicemen,
We know that they are grand,
Fighting on some foreign shore,
To keep freedom in our land.
Especially on Thanksgiving Day,
Let our prayers be a part,
Of all prayers being offered
To God, from all our hearts.

Stop Levy Meet Tempers Flare, Set New Date Jan. 12

By JOSEPH SEVICK

LEMONT -- A special meeting to explain assessments to 27 property owners around Peiffer and Warner avenues has recessed Monday night when shouting began.

The meeting will resume Jan. 12 at 8 p.m. It broke up when village trustees hurriedly adjourned the session. Five men in the group of 30 persons attending began to shout at each other an hour after the meeting started. They were arguing over costs and responsibility for paving sections of the two streets. Curbing and drainage improvements are also in the assessment figures.

Persons owning property on or near the areas proposed for paving would be assessed from $240 to more than $2,000 per lot based on front footage and how close to the improvement their property is.

The meeting had been called so that Anthony Fredericks, a public accountant hired by the village to compute assessments, could explain how costs were distributed.

Fredericks explained the improvements this way:

Persons owning six and a half lots on the east half of Warner St. from Peiffer to a point 390 feet north would pay $26 per front foot. This would pay for paving the east half of the street.

Persons who own property fronting on Peiffer St. between Walter and Warner streets would pay $4.86 per front foot if they live on the north side of the street; $32 per fronting foot for each of the four lots on the south side of Peiffer; $8.28 per front foot for each lot for half a block south on Walter, Florence and Warner streets because of "indirect benefits."

Mayor John Kujawa is on a month's vacation, according to trustee John Weber, who chaired the session as mayor pro-tem.

Some property owners claimed that persons who would not be assessed signed the petition asking for the improvement. Others claimed the contractor who originally improved the area should be held liable. Others said they could not see why they should be levied because of "indirect benefit" cost apportionment.

Fredericks and members of the board maintained the assessment has been figured on a fair basis.

No decision was reached.

Trustee Bernard Shaf announced vehicle stickers go on sale starting Dec. 1 at 8 a.m. for 24 hours daily at the police department. Dog licenses will be available at the same time.

Fees are, passenger cars, $10; trucks in classes A, B, C, $12; trucks, classes D to L, $25; all trucks over class N, $30; motorcycles and motor bikes, $5. Dog licenses are $3.

Freeway Differences Aired

FRANKFORT -- Frankfort and Mokena are several miles apart -- literally speaking -- on their choice of routes for the north-south leg of the southwest suburban freeway, but Burton Breidert, chairman of the Frankfort planning commission has hopes that adjustments can be made.

Breidert represented the village of Frankfort in a recent conference at which the Mokena spokesman was its Mayor Will Tuttle. The Mokena group presented their plan in a brochure. The Chicago Transportation committee, the Northeast Planning committee and a representative of the state highway department were also present but the meeting was called primarily to get an expression of views from Mokena and Frankfort.

The Frankfort plan outlined by Breidert would have the route coming down from the north in the vicinity of 108th Av., continue south with a westerly slant to bring the freeway along the western fringe of Frankfort and thence south to a point below that village where it would follow the east-west leg to cross major highways in Indiana, passing out of Illinois in the vicinity of Steger and Crete.

An interchange at U. S. 30 would give Frankfort ready access to an expressway, Breidert pointed out, and he also urged the engineers to provide for an interchange on the east-west leg at Center Rd.

The Frankfort industrial section along Center Rd. would thus be served, Breidert said, and added that the Mokena group was in accord with Center Rd. interchange idea.

Mokena was opposed to this route, Breidert said, contending it would destroy plans for an industrial site east of the village. The Mokena group proposed that the freeway run west of that village, roughly following the Frankfort-New Lenox town line road and then angle southeast to where the route would head east for Indiana, south of Frankfort for the interchange with U.S. 30. This interchange would be west of Wolf Rd. Frankfort wants it closer to that village.

Breidert said the engineers would meet again with representatives from the two villages and he hoped that meanwhile Frankfort and Mokena could iron out their differences.

The mayors of the three area communities, Glenn Warning, of Frankfort, Tuttle, of Mokena, and Joseph Hartung, of New Lenox, had a discussion of the problem last weekend.

Breidert said that prior to the meeting with the Mokena and Frankfort groups, Murphy Engineering had seven routes traced on a map. Now the total is nine with the Frankfort and Mokena plans. The engineering firm hopes to reduce the number to three by early days of June, which will be passed on to the state highway department to select the one that will be built.

Prefer U.S. 6 Loop; 'Price' Asked

By GLENN LOGAN

SOUTHWEST -- What price interchange between U.S. 6 and the proposed new federal aid Will-Lake freeway that would connect I-80 and Tollway 90?

State District Engineer F.C. Ziezewski who presided at the public hearing of the design and location of the road that would supplant Ill. 53, said that he would recommend that an interchange be made with U.S. 6 if --

The "if" would be that Will county and neighboring townships assume responsibility for improving U.S. 6 in the area. This would mean widening Rt. 6 to a four-way highway and probably providing a median strip and whatever other improvements the interchange might call for, it was explained.

The state, he said, would build the interchange, but would do nothing for U.S. 6. The latter route, according to traffic studies and engineers will become a local road in time and will have to be maintained as such. The state is chiefly concerned with major highways and expressways but, it was observed after the meeting, today's major highways may be the back roads of tomorrow.

The meeting held on Wednesday night last week in the Francis 4-H Field Exhibition Hall was attended by some 300 persons. Many of them in all probability had had a preliminary peek at the maps and the thousands of words of description of Proposed Freeway Route 61, because they were prepared to argue for an interchange on U.S. 6.

The Joliet Transportation Committee, which included members from New Lenox and Frankfort (Mokena was not invited to have representative at the time) had recommended an interchange with Rt. 61 at Bruce and Gougar roads in Lockport Township and had decided to eliminate one at U.S. 6, Ziezewski told the audience. No one at the hearing last week spoke up for Bruce Rd. but everyone who did talk urged an interchange on Rt. 6.

A letter was read from the City of Joliet, the Joliet Chamber of Commerce, strongly recommending the interchange on Rt. 6 as necessary to the growth of the area.

John E. Francis, speaking as supervisor of New Lenox, president of the New Lenox Fire Protection District, and a trustee of Silver Cross Hospital, spoke strongly in favor of the Rt. 6 interchange, as did Postmaster Lester Brown, of New Lenox, who is chairman of the planning commission of that village.

SEEKING WITNESSES

LEMONT -- Charles Whelan, assistant Cook County state's attorney, has called for persons who were at the scene of a February hit and run accident that claimed the life of a 6-year-old girl to contact him, or the girl's parents.

Debra Dahn was leaving a school bus in front of her home at 127th and Archer on Feb. 7, 1969. A man, later apprehended and charged, hit her with a pick-up truck and fled. Whelan said that behind the school bus the first grade pupil had left were as many as five autos.

Drivers of the autos -- all young men -- helped at the scene, but left without anyone finding out their names. Whelan is seeking these men because they may be of help in the state's attorneys case. Time is running out. The trial is now expected to start just after Thanksgiving, he said.

Persons with information to offer can contact Whelan at (312) 321-5526, or call Mr. and Mrs. Willis Dahn at (312) 257-5318, collect.

Landfill Goes Into 'Limbo'

LEMONT -- The issue of a landfill at the Mt. Vernon Memorial Hills cemetery is in limbo again until the spring.

Sticker Gift Is Offered

LEMONT -- The Lemont Chamber of Commerce is reminding residents of the village who are licensed drivers and who are 65 years or older that the chamber will purchase 1970 vehicle stickers for all those in that group who apply.

It's part of a chamber program to recognize the contributions of senior citizens.

Requests must be sent before Dec. 31 to Rich Hancasky, 1150 State St., Lemont. There is a limit of one sticker to a family.

Please give name, age, date of birth, address, type of auto, state license number, driver's license number and date of its expiration.

The commemorative stamp of Dwight D. Eisenhower is the second jumbo size stamp issued by the postoffice.

nine months, the village hall was packed Nov. 17 as the issue was argued before the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals. Owners of the cemetery have asked for a permit that would allow a landfill; surrounding residents and landowners are fighting that.

When the date of the third hearing will be is in some doubt, according to Paul Marsey, secretary to the board. He guessed it would be January or March before the board gets out to the village hall again. One thing is for sure, he said: the meeting will start earlier in the day.

The zoning board would like to wrap-up all testimony then. The five board members have yet to hear from one more witness for the cemetery owners, and seven or so witnesses for interests battling the landfill.

Marsey said the meeting would start at 3 p.m. so that if the session ran into the night it wouldn't have to be ended prematurely.

Once all testimony is finished, the zoning board will allow time for an opinion to be filed by the village before giving an opinion to the Cook County Board of Commissioners. That unit has the final word on whether the permit will be issued.

At the hearing a week ago Monday, an engineer and a planning consultant retained by cemetery owners gave testimony about what drainage, pollution, pest, traffic, odor and general annoyance would be created by a landfill.

The witnesses held to the theme that neighboring owners would not be inconvenienced. Landowners' attorneys' questioning attempted to expose dangers they see in a landfill.

Ray Walschlager, an area homeowner prominent in the fight against the landfill, said following the hearing, "I have to think our chances of beating it are very good."

Clara Woodard In The Race For County Clerk

WILL COUNTY -- Clara Hartley Woodard is seeking re-election as Will County Clerk on the Republican ballot in the 1970 elections.

In making her announcement last week, Mrs. Woodard said, "I intend to seek re-election on my record as a far-sighted administrator who utilizes the latest equipment to get the job done and provides personalized service to the public."

Mrs. Woodard has introduced modern, efficient equipment to the operation of the County Clerk's office since she was first elected County Clerk in 1962.

She was one of the first county clerks in the State of Illinois to conduct training schools for judges of election. Mrs. Woodard has introduced microfilming to the Clerk's office. She has conducted recent elections using electronic data processing equipment. She is presently codifying all County board resolutions and ordinances for ready access.

"The County Clerk has more than 800 statutory duties," states Mrs. Woodard. "I constantly search for new methods of performing these duties to save taxpayers' money. I sincerely feel that I have done a creditable job in handling the duties and responsibilities of being the Will County Clerk."

When first elected as County Clerk in 1962 Mrs. Woodard was and still is the only woman to be chosen to be a county officer in the history of Will County. She ran for re-election in 1966 as an administrator who applies space age solutions to Will County's problems. Will County voters re-elected her by a 10,000 vote margin, the highest plurality given any candidate by Will County voters in that election.

Delegations of County Clerks have visited Will County to study the operations of her office. They are especially impressed with her quick card-indexing system for all vital records, which enables the public to receive prompt service when obtaining copies of vital records. This method was unique in the State and is now being used by other counties.

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Joliet is one of Mrs. Woodard's special interest groups. She has served them as Chairman of the Legislative Committee, and makes recommendations on legislation pending before the state legislature and Congress. She is also a past officer of the Pilot Club.

In 1966 the Young Republicans Club of Will County gave Mrs. Woodard the Woman of the Year Award. In 1969 the Will County Chapter of Multiple Sclerosis Society honored Mrs. Woodard by giving her the Multiple Sclerosis Society Merit Award for her service to them.

Mrs. Woodard was born near Braidwood in Will County, and educated in Joliet grade and high schools. She served her father, Joseph Hartley, as deputy clerk prior to her own election in 1962.

Mrs. Woodard's husband, Milo, is a dispatcher for Commonwealth Edison Company. The Woodards reside at 511 N. Reed Street in Joliet.

Charley Wheeler, News Veteran, Dies

Charles N. Wheeler, 54, a former editor of The Lemont, since merged into the Southwest Graphic, died early last Wednesday morning, Nov. 19, at his home, 18 S. Raynor Av., Joliet, following a valiant, 18-month battle against cancer.

He knew the nature of his illness from the time it was diagnosed and there were times when he had great pain but he remained cheerful and optimistic and never lost his keen sense of humor.

He had a long career as a newspaperman, dating back to 1934 when he became a reporter for the Joliet Herald News. In 1937 he went to work for the Chicago Times and remained on after it attained its present identity, the Chicago Sun-Times.

Mr. Wheeler was an assistant city editor of the Sun-Times, an assistant Sunday editor, and at the time when illness forced him to quit work in the late spring of 1968 he was assistant chief of the Sun-Times copy desk.

His working schedule at the Sun-Times permitted him to take charge of The Lemont and he served as its editor for 15 years.

Charley Wheeler -- that was how most people referred to him, using both names--was an excellent writer and that is not at all surprising.

His father, the late Charles N. Wheeler, Sr., was a newspaperman and he too had his start at Joliet, going from there to Chicago where he became political editor of the Chicago Daily News. A brother, Marshall, is also a writer dealing with politics, and a son, Charles N. Wheeler III, is a reporter for the Sun-Times.

A graduate of Joliet Township High School and Junior College, Charley Wheeler served in the Navy as a Specialist 2/C in World War II and he was a member of the Holy Name Society of St. Patrick Church, Joliet.

Of a charitable nature and with a passion for justice he was a leader in the Christian Family movement in Joliet, a group that is working for better education and improvement in civil and racial relations.

Besides his wife, the former Mary Hobart, Mr. Wheeler is survived by two sons, Charles N. and Robert H., a law student, and a daughter, Linda Marie; also three brothers and a sister, Marshall, of Springfield, Kevin and Patrick, of Joliet and Mary, Mrs. Jerome Holland, of Miami Shores, Fla. A brother, John, preceded him in death.

Funeral services were conducted last Saturday from the Fred C. Dames funeral home, Center and Campbell, Joliet, at 9 o'clock to St. Patrick Church at 9:30. Interment was in Resurrection Cemetery, Romeoville.

Will GOP Picks For 1970 Primary Ticket

JOLIET -- Meeting at the Holiday Inn here Saturday the Will County Republican Central Committee endorsed the candidates it will support in the primary next March.

The committeemen tapped Earl Cantone, of Peotone, a former state trooper, as their candidate for sheriff, Walter Schuetz, present deputy treasurer for country treasurer, and George M. O'Brien, a Joliet attorney, for state representative in place of William G. Barr, who decided not to seek re-election.

They also endorsed incumbent county officers whose terms expire next year: Clara Hartley Woodward, for county clerk, and Boyd Bucher, for county superintendent of schools.

The committee also gave its approval to the candidates of Ralph Smith, for U.S. senator to succeed the late Everett M. Dirksen; Congressmen Leslie Arends, of the 17th district, and John Erlenborn, of the 14th district; State Senators Meade Baltz, of Joliet, and Harris Fawell, of DuPage County; State Representative W. Robert Blair, of Park Forest; State Superintendent of Public Instruction Ray Page, and Edmund Kucharski, Cook County treasurer a candidate for state treasurer.

While Republican chieftans do not call this a slate it would take someone with a strong ego and bank account, or someone entirely ignorant of the political facts of life, or maybe someone slightly "teched in the head", as the phrase goes, to enter the lists against primary candidates who have the endorsement -- and therefore the support -- of the committeemen, whose duty it is to get out the vote.

It costs money to conduct a campaign, especially in a primary where there could be a flock of candidates for each office, it was pointed out.

It is going to cost money for the campaign that will end in November, 1970, so no one can fault anyone if he can save money in the primary. While the endorsement of a candidates for nominations does not prevent anyone from running who wants to it is not likely there will be any opposition.

The Democrat organizations has put endorsed primary tickets in the field for many elections in Will County.

Endorsed tickets also have the advantage of eliminating bad blood that could arise in the event of a bitter primary campaign, it was explained.

Principal interest among the Republicans this year was the sheriff's race. It started out with quite a field, John Dillon, retired Joliet police captain and currently chief investigator for State's Attorney Louis Bertani; Lee Ruphard, a former state trooper and currently chief deputy under Sheriff Martin Jackson, an office that he also held under the late Sheriff Gilbert Knater; Earl Cantone, Joseph Jenco, and former sheriff and retired Joliet police chief, Joseph Trizna.

The presence of Trizna on the list came as a bit of surprise for most observers. When he was elected eight years ago Trizna was running on the Democratic ticket. However, some of the GOP committee figured he would be a strong candidate and last week his chances of winning endorsement appeared so good that Dillon, a practical man as well as an excellent officer, gave notice to his supporters that in the interest of harmony he was dropping out of the contest.

Then the GOP brass discovered that the last time Trizna voted in a primary election it was a Democrat and that when the primary comes up in March he would still be on record as a registered Democrat and therefore ineligible to run on the Republican ticket.

It was suggested that Dillon get back in the race and he did but it is likely that the announcement last week that he was not a candidate could have hurt his chances last Saturday, some observers believe.

Four ballots were taken. Under the rule of the committee if five ballots are taken without a decision the office involved "goes up for grabs." Neither Dillon nor Cantone, who were leading in the balloting wanted a contest so agreed that whoever was ahead on the fourth ballot should have the endorsement. The committee was informed of this after the fourth ballot was taken and agreed to suspend the rule for the occasion. Thus the nod went to Cantone with Dillon pledging his wholehearted support.

As a matter of fact, according to observers, harmony appears to be the watch word for the coming primary with the Republicans saving their fight for the Democrats.

Winners In Con-Con

SOUTHWEST -- Taking seats at the opening session for the Illinois Constitutional Convention (Con-Con) Dec. 8 in Springfield will be:

Louis F. Bottino and Arthur T. Lennon from the 41st senatorial district.

Mrs. Helen C. Kinney and Anthony M. Peccarelli from the 40th senatorial district.

Mrs. Joan Anderson and Joseph Meek from the 9th senatorial district in Cook County.

These were the winners of the con-con election of delegates last Tuesday, Nov. 18. Of the four candidates in each district, the two with the highest vote totals were elected as delegates.

Voting in northeast Will County was slightly below the average for the metropolitan suburban region.

The county vote was about 21 per cent of registrations, while the metro level was 23 per cent. Downstate, turnout was about 25 per cent.

Will County election officials said that computerized vote counting procedures went without a hitch.

Losers in the voting were:

George Sangmeister of Mokena, and Daniel L. Kennedy in the 41 senatorial district.

Mrs. Helen Harshbarger and James Clark in the 40th senatorial district.

State Senator Terrel Clarke and William Cairnes in the 9th senatorial district.

Back on the winners' side, Bottino is a Wilmington resident who heads the Lewis College Education Department. Lennon is an assistant state's attorney. Both lead in Will County, and did well in Grundy County.

Strength for the winners in the 40th district came from DuPage County, which comprises most of that district. Mrs. Harshbarger, a Plainfield resident lead in the Will County portion of the district, but lost the bid in DuPage voting. Mrs. Kinney and Peccarelli -- winners in the 40th -- live in Hinsdale and Wheaton respectively, and both had served as assistant state's attorneys.

Mrs. Anderson in the 9th district is from Western Springs along with Meek. Meek heads the Illinois Retail Merchant's Association.

Frankfort Population Gain Pays

FRANKFORT -- The population gain at Frankfort, reported recently as a result of a special, official census under the direction of the U.S. Census Bureau, is already paying off. The village board has received notice from the state that beginning the first of November Frankfort's share of the motor fuel tax would be based on the new census

The census cost Frankfort $825 and the village stands to make a tidy sum from the investment. The motor fuel tax split up by the state is paid to municipalities on a per capita basis. Formerly it was around $5 a head. Under a recent law the payment will not exceed $6 per capita. The state is also whacking up a portion of the income tax it has been collecting since August and that too is on a per capita basis.

At the meeting of the village board last week it was voted to write Congressman Leslie Arends and urge him to support a move to divert federal funds that were intended to improve the water supply at the Joliet arsenal to the Lake Joliet project. Under this plan the Kankakee River would be dammed to form a lake that would serve the area as a reservoir of potable water.

Surveys, to which Frankfort, Mokena and New Lenox all contributed funds, show that the water tables of the area are dropping lower and that eventually the deep wells that now supply the communities with water will no longer be able to do so.

Yule Starts With Tree Theft

NEW LENOX -- A thief with a silent saw got his Christmas tree early this year. The tree, between six and seven feet in height and about five feet wide across the bottom, was stolen from the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tehle, 111 Central Rd., on the south side of New Lenox.

The tree was cut off about

Trustee Robert Dean, head of the police committee, told the board that the state police is willing to take Frankfort police calls when the village hall is closed and on Sundays and holidays. State police would then relay the calls to Frankfort police on patrol duty via radio.

The only cost to the village would be for the telephone line, Dean said, which four inches from the ground. It was a species known as Highland Spruce that the Tehles got from Wisconsin.

The theft took place the night of Nov. 17 or the early hours of Nov. 18, Mrs. Tehle said. She suggested that residents who have evergreens in their yards keep a protective eye on them, else they too are carted away.

would come to about $70 a month. This would be a saving, Dean said, because now it costs the village about $200 a month to take phone calls when the village hall is closed. The board indicated it was interested in taking advantage of the offer.

State police are prepared to give this assistance to communities where no regular police station is maintained. Frankfort's police radio is already on the same frequency as the state's so it would have no equipment to buy.

In making his routine report covering drainage and water Trustee Wilbert Klier revealed that a thief, specializing in out size loot, has visited Frankfort. The culvert was 12 inches in diameter and 16-feet long, not a thing that one could hide under his suit coat.

Road Routing Problems

The location of the route the north-south southwest suburban freeway is quite likely to stir considerable debate among the communities and the people effected by the choice before the issue is finally settled.

Representatives of Mokena and Frankfort were given opportunity to present their views at a recent conference held in Chicago by the Murphy Engineering firm. This group of engineers has been retained by the state to recommend the most favorable route for the proposed freeway.

It would have a connection with toll road 294 and come south in the vicinity of Orland Park to a point below Frankfort where it would swing to the east to give access to the major north-south highways in Indiana.

A three-mile corridor has been blocked out and the eventual route chosen will lie within its boundaries. This three-mile corridor provides considerable latitude for the location of a highway. It also offers a wide field for debate.

It is only natural that the communities and the people involved should strive for a route that would be most beneficial to their own interests.

At the meeting with the engineers a map was presented on which seven proposed routes were drawn in. After the Mokena and Frankfort spokesmen had finished there were nine routes outlined.

The Mokena spokesmen favor a route that would pass west of the village, somewhere in the vicinity of the New Lenox-Frankfort township road. After crossing U.S. 30 it would angle southeasterly to the eastern leg that would connect with Indiana. Moving the route west would also benefit New Lenox, Mokena spokesmen said.

The Mokena spokesmen were opposed to the route passing east of the village on the grounds that it would wreck plans for its proposed industrial area east of the village.

Frankfort, on the other hand, would like to have the route come in from that angle to skirt its western fringe, with an interchange at U.S. 30, and another at where Center Rd. would intersect.

This would give Frankfort residents better access to the freeway if the interchange on U.S. 30 were located close by U.S. 45, rather than if it were west of Wolf Rd., their spokesmen said. It would also best serve its industrial area, which is south of the village and along Center Rd. This would also help to channel truck traffic around rather than through the village.

Mokena and Frankfort representatives will confer again with the engineers and it was hoped that in the meantime they will have reached an agreement that will be beneficial to both communities. Mayor Tuttle, of Mokena, Mayor Glenn Warning, of Frankfort, and Mayor Joseph Hartung, of New Lenox were to have discussed the subject last weekend. A compromise should not be too difficult but what effect it might have remains to be seen.

When the engineers finish their studies they will have reduced the present nine proposed route locations to three and the state division of highways will make the final choice.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Grief Is Told

Editor:

Don't you think Mrs. Zortman went through enough grief? First the shock of being told her husband was killed in an automobile accident, then the fact that she was not told by any authorities but by around about way an hour and one-half after the accident. Then she had to make all the funeral arrangements for a 31-year-old person and having to tell her two little girls their daddy will no longer be with them. The job of facing what was a family life to a life now alone was and is another adjustment. But then to top the whole thing off, to pick up a copy of the local newspaper and see a picture on the front page of her deceased husband lying in a field, a cruel picture to stay and haunt her mind for the rest of her life. News worthy or not, would you like to see a picture of your wife in the same circumstances? I don't think so, and I believe your paper has done a cruel thing to an already grieved family. I guess life and death are both hard to understand.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Beverly Haas

Look At The Good

Editor:

I, for one, an beginning to wonder what our constitution really stands for.

My owner is subjected to laws, ordinances, rules, and regulations that not even the communists apply to the peasants. He is not allowed to travel the streets in his town and is subjected to the highest vehicle registration fee in our country.

Wherever I go I am criticized for my length, height and an even heckled for my weight. I try to make him a good companion, and to be as profitable as possible, but it is most times difficult.

I supply you and your family with your heat, your food, and even your clothes. I supply you with almost everything that you see in the room around you. Why then do my master and I receive such unjust treatment.

Cartoon Courtesy of Bill Mauldin

"Those rockhounds took three of her eggs."

True, we are hard on the paths which we travel, but we also have the most untarnished safety record compared with you yourselves.

In our small town we supply your babies with milk and your new homes with foundations and lumber. Not to mention the fuel for your heat and the grain for your childrens cereal in the mornings.

We indirectly protect your homes in the event of fire and even keep your streets clean. It seems uncanny to me that the few of us who have only one owner or master are to be treated as the peasants, when the ones of us that are owned by the city and the state, (which is really you) are treated as the legislators. Does this not seem unfair? If so then why do you ban us from the streets of your town?

Is it our speed, we are statistically the safest operated vehicles in the world. Maybe it's our weight, but your school buses when loaded are heavier than many of us. Our noise doesn't compare with the train that passes through your town and no one seems to be trying to get the train rerouted. The city wants industry but is not willing to absorb the pains of expanding growth.

School can't be any more important than feeding the babies of America, nor more so than delivering fuel for your heat.

My master takes me from coast to coast in which each state we travel in is cheaper to maintain and operate me than in our state. When we return to Illinois my limbs get beaten and battered from the rough pavement. What is happening to the money that we send you. Surely it doesn't go for our roads.

So before another sign is posted that we are not allowed to travel a state road in your town, please remind yourselves of what we bring you. If food, clothing, milk for your babies, newspapers, furniture, fuel for your heat and so many more things are not important to you then you sign your own obituary. Without trucks there would be no industry, and without industry there would be no city.

Remember, if you have it, it came by truck.

Signed:

A Truck from Frankfort and Illinois

Speed Not Killer

Editor:

In your Nov. 19 issue you reported an accident that left six children fatherless.

You claimed speed left these children fatherless, and I wholeheartedly disagree with you. Speed wasn't driving any of those cars, although I do agree speed played a major role in the accident, but if one of those drivers hadn't made a mistake they may still be alive. Speed is deadly, very deadly, if not handled properly. Proof of this is the Bonneville Land Speed Records. In 21 years with men driving in a range from 0 to 600 m.p.h. only two people have been killed.

I thank you for your valuable time and space.

Why Didn't It Pass?

Editor:

Another bond issue was defeated in Lincoln Estates, this in a community supporting Lincoln-Way's bond issues while rejecting bond issues of its local grade school. Is the community saying no to higher taxes or is it more than that?

Is the community serving notice that well over $100,000 spent in recent bond issues haven't produced the facilities surrounding schools have gotten for a comparable sum? Is the community saying bid procedures have not been followed correctly so the tax dollars are spent wisely? Is the community saying we cannot afford so many frills? Are the taxpayers supporting a private and public school system rejecting the school Board and PTA presidents' recent campaign to ban public aid to private schools?

No Scientific Evidence To Show Marijuana Safe

PHYSICAL EFFECTS NOT DETERMINED; DRUG DOES HINDER CLEAR THINKING

Last In A Series

Nearly everyone has heard fables, fictions, or fallacies about marijuana, perhaps like these:

"Smoke pot and you wind up hooked on heroin . . . Man, it's cleaner than alcohol . . . It's the first step right into the psycho ward . . . There's just no reason to keep it illegal . . . Why doesn't anyone tell the truth about marijuana?"

None of these statements is based on scientific fact, but on half-fact or misinformation.

The first statement, although wrong, stems from some studies showing that sizeable percentages of heroin addicts previously smoked marijuana (pot). The reverse is not necessarily true, although this adds no reasoning to the side of those who favor unrestricted marijuana.

Alcohol and marijuana are not comparable, as far as No. 2 goes. Moreover, the long-term effects of marijuana smoking are simply not known as yet.

As to No. 3, scientists have not proved that marijuana is a direct cause of mental illness. Nor have they proved that it prevents mental disorders or helps mental health.

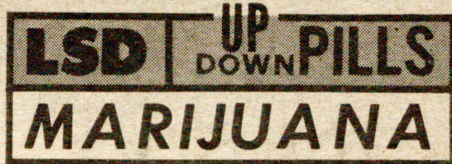

There are some reasons on the legal side for restrictions on marijuana, as, for example, the indisputable fact that science does not know very much about it. It does not appear, moreover, that mass, permissive, total population usage of an unknown but powerful mind-affecting drug is rational.

"Why doesn't anyone tell the truth about marijuana?"

This despairing kind of cry is perhaps based on confusion brought about by those who favor taking all shackles off marijuana and who disseminate misinformation or slanted material rather than objective information.

Here are some facts about this controversial substance, entirely founded on what science now knows, not on guesses, rumors, and wishful emotionalizing.

The smoking of marijuana is illegal in nearly every civilized country of the world. Nevertheless, with the possible exception of alcohol, it is today probably the most widely used intoxicant in the world.

Despite its current pervasiveness, scientists are quick to acknowledge significant gaps in their knowledge of marijuana's effects on man -- and animals, too, for that matter.

The little research that has been done in the U.S., and there has not been a great deal anywhere in the world.

All natural marijuana is of uncertain potency, and seized materials are frequently unrefined and impure. Reliable research can only be conducted if the drug is standardized, the potency constant.

This long-standing problem seems at last to have been largely solved. Researchers have succeeded in isolating a number of compounds in cannabis, the plant from which marijuana cigarette material comes. In addition, they have determined the exact structure of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), the probable main, active principle of marijuana. Thus, the production of uniform, synthetic or man-made marijuana is now possible.

With this compound, THC, sometimes called "liquid marijuana," scientists can at last run controlled, uniform experiments.

Some other facts about marijuana which every citizen, old and young, needs to know have already been established. Here are some questions often asked and answers to them.

What is marijuana?

Marijuana -- also spelled "marihuana" -- is a drug found in a plant (cannabis sativa) that grows in mild climate countries all around the world. Some of its nicknames are pot, grass, weed, and Mary Jane.

How is it used?

For use as a drug, the leaves and flowers are usually dried and crushed or chopped into small pieces. This green-colored product is rolled and smoked in cigarettes or pipes or can be sniffed or taken in food. Its sweetish odor is easily recognized. The smoke is harsh; it smells like burnt rope or dried grasses.

Is marijuana used for medical purposes?

No. It has no known use in modern medicine. There are medical research studies seeking scientific information on it, but it is not used to treat or cure illness.

Statements that marijuana is "medically safe" are not supported by scientific evidence.

Do we know what marijuana does to the mind and body?

We do not know the physical affects fully. Long-term effects are absolutely unknown. The kind of research needed to learn the results of continued use has not yet been done. It is getting underway now, however, as pointed out.

Does marijuana affect judgement?

Yes, but not favorably. A person using marijuana finds it harder to make decisions that require clear thinking. He is open more easily to other people's suggestions. Doing anything that takes good reflexes and clear thinking is affected. It is, for example, dangerous to drive while under the influence of marijuana, just as it is with alcohol.

What about the laws?

There are federal and state laws -- and international laws -- dealing with marijuana. Possession or sale of it in the U.S. is a felony under federal law. Many states deal with marijuana as severely as if it were a narcotic.

Many feel that the laws should be changed; many others do not. In any case, young and old alike should know these and other facts.

(Four factual, easy-to-read leaflets on drugs are available for the asking. Titled "Marijuana," "LSD," "Narcotics" and "The Up and Down Drugs," free single copies may be obtained by writing the National Institute of Mental Health, Box 1080, Washington, D.C.)

Car Insurance Goes Up

FRAGILE BUMPERS CRITICIZED

Insurance executives have criticized the automobile industry on grounds that it builds super-powered cars equipped with fragile bumpers.

An industry official answered the charge.

"Today's bumpers do little more than provide another tempting target for costly damage," Vice President Arthur C. Mertz of the National Association of Independent Insurers told the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Antitrust and Monopoly recently.

Mertz added: "It is a rather sad commentary that a technology which had catapulted man safely to . . . the moon . . . had failed to equip . . . a car with bumper protection against the everyday risks of a five-mile trip to the supermarket."

He cited four reasons behind inflation in auto damage losses: super-powered cars; increased cost of repair parts; increased garage charges; the vulnerability of today's cars to

How Safe To Eat Is Food? Less Than You Think

OFFICIALS SEEK BETTER MEANS TO POLICE FOOD INDUSTRY, MAKE IT STICK

(Copyright 1969, By Congressional Quarterly, Inc.)

Some of the widest gaps in consumer protection involve food safety.

Despite rising interest in consumer affairs and Congressional efforts to expand protection, problems that have confronted American food shoppers in the past year include:

--Hot dogs with more than 30 percent fat content, impure pork sausages and contaminated fish were on the market.

--Almost all of 15 smoked-fish processing plants in one section of the United States were operating under conditions potentially dangerous to health, a Food and Drug Administration (FDA) inspection revealed.

--Cases of nitrate poisoning have been traced by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) to residues in baby foods of nitrogen fertilizers used by growers.

Food safety is one of the problems that would be tackled under President Nixon's Oct. 30 "Buyer's Bill of Rights" proposal, which would create a Justice Department Consumer Division and strengthen the office of the President's special assistant for consumer affairs.

Stiffer Enforcement Urged

But some government officials say better enforcement, based on more money and staff for existing agencies like the Food and Drug Administration and the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), would greatly improve conditions.

The FDA estimates that fewer than two-thirds of the nation's food processors have complied with standards to prevent some forms of food contamination.

Insect fragments and larvae, rodent hairs and other impurities were found in six of 48 samples of fresh pork sausage analyzed in 1968 by Consumers Union. The samples had previously been inspected and approved by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

One in five of more than 600 fisheries in interstate commerce inspected by the FDA in the 1968 fiscal year was found to be violating regulations. Budget limitations prevented the FDA from inspecting some 1,400 other establishments in interstate commerce.

Lack of Authority

Critics have complained, however, that the FDA's major deficiency is a lack of authority to deal with food industry abuses. It lacks, for instance, subpoena authority to summon witnesses or require companies to divulge records. As a result, hundreds of companies refuse to allow the FDA to conduct inspections and refuse to furnish quality formulas or review safety or health-control records.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader, urging stronger federal intervention, has called existing quality-control laws "toothless laws." But many industry groups say that such laws are costly to the consumer and that industry could do a better job without federal interference.

The conflicting viewpoints are reflected in Congressional actions on additional controls proposed in 1969.

Legislative Pace Slow

Some 260 consumer programs are administered by 33 different federal agencies. Bills to centralize programs by creating a new Department of Consumer Affairs have been repeatedly introduced in Congress but remain in committee this year.

Also stuck in committee are bills to permit consumers to sue as representatives of all purchasers of a product, to tighten inspection of fisheries and fish products, and to improve inspection of eggs and egg products.

A House committee held hearings on a proposal to improve the 1966 Fair Packaging and Labeling Act, but no bill has yet been introduced.

Legislation now proposed to require labeling of packages with the price per pound, pint or other unit of measurement has been referred to committees in the House and the Senate, but not further action has been taken.

Follow-Up Criticized

At House hearings in June on the efficiency of the truth-in-packaging law, Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal (D N.Y.) said that three years after the law's enactment, consumers were still confronted with packages that concealed content shrinkage and with food labels that failed to provide accurate information as to contents.

Chairman Paul Rand Dixon of the FTC said last spring his agency's major obstacle in protecting consumers was Congress itself. The FTC can prevent false advertising but does not have the power to bar a dangerous product from market.

Dixon told a Senate committee that the FTC needed more resources and a more powerful and sympathetic constituency in Congress. He said legislators pass laws to satisfy the public while withholding enforcement funds to satisfy industry.

The FDA spends $22.4 million annually to control the $100-billion food industry and uses fewer than 1,500 employees to watchdog some 50,000 companies.

Fears Of Hysterectomy Are Unfounded

SOUTHWEST -- Although many husbands consider a gynecologist's waiting room a "no-man's land," a leading practitioner suggests they belong there when wives are about to undergo hysterectomy.

A three-way talk involving the doctor, husband and wife can help speed the woman's emotional recovery, according to Dr. Stewart Marcus, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Cornell University Medical College.

He pointed out that an operation on a woman's reproductive system has an emotional impact on the patient's triple role as woman, wife and mother, but that much of this can be averted by complete and open discussion.

Many fears and fallacies are pointlessly harbored by both men and women about gynecologic surgery, he said, many husbands erroneously believing that a hysterectomy creates problems in sexual relationships.

"I think it is an investment on the part of the physician in the future welfare and well-being of his patient if he brings the husband into the discussion and points out that there should be no expectation of any problems in sexual intercourse," said Dr. Marcus.

There is a common misunderstanding about the surgical limits of a hysterectomy, he added. "When the term hysterectomy is used, it usually means only the removal of the uterus, though many patients believe surgery is more extensive. Too many women associate this operation with the removal of all pelvic organs, including the ovaries."

In addition to this misunderstanding, other old wives' tales cloud the operation, said the gynecologist. Many women associate a hysterectomy with such results as premature aging, metabolic changes, hormonal imbalance, loss of attractiveness, and a loss of sexual interest.

These fears are unfounded, the gynecologist said, when the womb alone is removed. In the absence of the womb, the ovaries continue to function, supplying estrogen, the female hormone.

If the ovaries are removed in a premenopausal patient, she will experience a surgical or artificial menopause, for the ovaries are the prime source of estrogen. For the past two decades, Dr. Marcus said, menopause induced by surgery has been treated with estrogen replacement therapy.

"Today, we anticipate these problems by prescribing replacement of estrogen -- beginning at the time of removal of the ovaries -- and if this is done, there will be no menopausal symptoms. We can protect the woman through pills from going through a premature and artificial menopause," Dr. Marcus said.

In addition to prescribing estrogen for menopausal symptoms, whether natural or surgical, Dr. Marcus said that estrogen is recommended for long-range preventive aspects of ailments now associated with estrogen deficiency in the postmenopausal woman.

"Where there are no specific contrain-dications, estrogen replacement therapy can be continued quite safely for many years, assuming that the patient has regular checkups and examinations," he said. Estrogen deficiency, he noted, is linked to osteoporosis -- a thinning of the bones, particularly in the spinal column, leading to a shortening of height and the so-called dowager's hump.

"The female hormones may also be protective against the development of cardiovascular disease, particularly hardening of the arteries or coronary arteriosclerosis," Dr. Marcus said. "A woman has built-in protective mechanism against the development of arteriosclerosis until she goes through the so-called change of life -- or menopause, after which the risk for her begins to approach what it is for males."

Along with the emotional problems and others induced by an artificial menopause, physicians are cognizant of the cosmetic effects of such operations. Dr. Marcus said that while the old-fashioned vertical incision is still necessary in cases, gynecologists are now using a lower, horizontal incision, and hysterectomies have also been performed for some time now by vaginal approach.

Following a hysterectomy, he said, "life should have exactly the same meaning, contentment and enjoyment as it had before the operation."

FOR CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Suggest Simple Sewing Items

SOUTHWEST -- When it comes to making gifts for Christmas, you don't have to be the most talented seamstress on the block. If you can stitch a straight seam and do simple sewing by hand or machine, you can turn out gifts that are both appealing and useful.

According to the National Cotton Council, the trick is to make simple items . . . then apply cotton rick rack in imaginative new ways.

Take placemats, for example. Make simple rectangle shapes from bold-striped cotton denim or sailcloth, allowing a half-yard of fabric for each mat. Play up the stripes by stitching on rows of rick rack in varying sizes and contrasting colors. Apply the rick rack rows directly to the stripes, using jumbo size rick rack on the widest stripes, and medium size on smaller stripes.

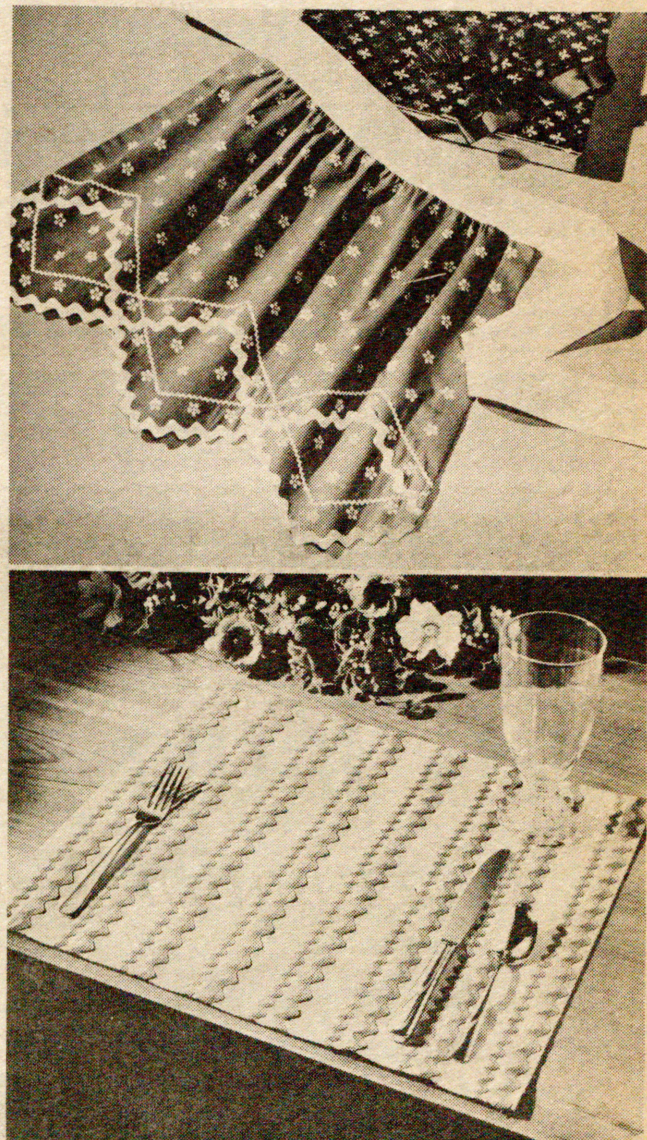

Another item that's easy to make and costs only pennies is a decorative apron. Choose a half-yard of any dainty floral-printed cotton and make a simple apron by gathering it to a waistband and ties cut from a contrasting solid fabric. To add interest and color, cut a diamond-shaped hem and outline with medium size rick rack in the same color as the waistband. Complete the design with another diamond pattern in baby-size rick rack . . . overlapping the larger motif.

Gifts for a tiny baby are always fun to make, and one of the simplest is a reversible bassinet cover. All you need is a yard of quilted cotton gingham with solid color backing, jumbo and baby-size cotton rick rack, and two-inch wide bias hem facing.

On the gingham side, attach jumbo rick rack to the quilting stitches to form diamond-shaped motifs. Then apply baby rick rack in another diamond pattern overlapping the first.

A FORUM ABOUT
MATURE WOMEN

Pregnancy After Menopause

Dear Miss Brookfield:

Would you advise if it is possible for a woman of 49 to become pregnant? I haven't had a period in 18 months and I have symptoms of the menopause.

R. B., Carbondale, Pa.

Dear R. B.:

In his book, 'The Ageless Woman,' Dr. Sherwin Kaufman, a prominent gynecologist-obstetrician, writes as follows: 'When a year has passed without menstruation, the menopause is considered fully established. This also marks the end of fertility.'

We assume that your question may have been prompted solely for birth control reasons -- but there is always the possibility that you are connecting symptoms of the menopause with the possibility of pregnancy. We suggest that you see your physician. So many women ignore this advice, but when they reach their forties and fifties an annual or semi-annual checkup is important.

Many women are inhibited about discussing 'female complaints' with their doctors, forgetting that he has heard it all. Whatever your menopausal complaints are, today doctors can relieve the distress by prescribing the female hormone, estrogen. Medical science now knows that the majority of menopausal symptoms are caused by a decline in the body's production of estrogen in the menopausal years. But for the last three decades estrogen has been available to medicine to change the 'changes' into a better life.

More Lonely Widows

Dear Miss Brookfield:

I read the letter from the lonely widower in my newspaper. I am a widow. Could you send him my address? Maybe we could write to each other and pass the time.

M.M., Radford, Va.

Dear M.M.:

Sorry we can't do that. Besides, we don't think the widower is looking merely for a correspondent to pass the time.

Three's a Crowd

Dear Miss Brookfield:

I have a big problem and it is getting me down. I am in love with a married man and he is in love with me. We both have children. His children love me. His wife isn't in her right mind. Right now I am living with them, taking care of her, the children and 'my man.' He can't take care of the house, his wife and the children. His wife knows that we are in love. I am 46. Please let me know what I should do.

M. R., Vincennes, Ill.

Dear M. R.:

We think your boyfriend's wife has the 'big problem' and it is getting her down. With her husband's mistress ensconced in the house, with her own children favorably disposed to the 'other woman' -- no wonder she 'isn't in her right mind.' Who would be? You have asked us to tell you what to do but we doubt whether you'll follow our advice. Here it is anyway: tell your boyfriend to get a medical opinion on his wife's condition -- and you start packing.

L-W Cagers Take 1st Season Game 72-45

NEW LENOX - The 1969-70 basketball season for Lincoln-Way High School got underway last Friday night with the Knights winning a non-conference tilt with Peotone, 72 to 45.

Tom Lewis, who coaches the Knights, trotted out squad that has size, speed and good depth. 6'-5" Terry Ryan was doing some excellent rebounding and should improve with age. Right now he is a sophomore.

Harold Webb, Greg Palka and John Minger had points in double figures out of 13 players Coach Lewis used against the Blue Devils, 11 of them scored. Peotone used 11 players and eight of them broke into the scoring column. Jeff Pilbeam, of Peotone, was high point man in the game, with 20 made up of seven buckets and six free throws.

Lincoln-Way led 28 to 18 at the half, piled up 26 points in the third quarter to Peotone's 12, but only outscored their opponents by three points in the final quarter, 18 to 15.

It was Palka who started the Knights out in the first frame with scoring five out of eight jump shots. By the time he finished his chores for the evening he had 17 points, as did Webb, who also had a very successful football season, finishing up as a pick for an all-star team. Webb and John Minger make quite a team on a fast break. Minger tallied 10 points. Ryan dunked some jump shots for a total of seven points; Senesac had six; Been and Krumweide, four each; Simpson, Fredin and Thackrey, two each, and Istel one. They all added up to a respectable 72.

Tonight (Wednesday) Lincoln-Way will play Bloom, of Chicago Heights, in the opening of the Bloom Thanksgiving tournament.

Three Lemont players were rated for linemen slots. These are Jack Pierce, a junior, 5' 10", 165 pounds; Rick Gendeman, a senior, 6', 205 pounds; and John Benda, a senior, 6' 1", 205 pounds.

Hunt For Best Boy, Girl On

LEMONT -- The hunt for the top boy or girl in the Lemont area is off to a good start, according to John Kickels, secretary of the Lemont Chamber of Commerce.

Announced last week, the chamber has asked all area churches, schools, organizations to select a person worthy of the "That's Our Boy (or Girl)" title. It's a contest to recognize a leading youth. A plaque will be awarded at the annual chamber dinner in January.

Qualifications could be in the areas of community work, charitable work, heroism or patriotism, Kickels said, or other areas.

Those nominated must live in Lemont Township, but do not have to be a member of the nominating organization and there is no age limit. Entries are due Jan. 1 in the form of a complete resume of why he or she should be considered. Entries can be mailed to the chamber, P.O. Box 83, Lemont, 60439.

Assessors Are In For Raise In Pay

SOUTHWEST -- New Lenox and Frankfort township assessors that take office in December should have better salaries than what has been their lot in the past.

The town boards meet this month to decide what the population totals are as of now. If over 9,000 the assessors, who have been getting $4,000 a year can be raised up to $7,000. Over 18,000 population and assessors could be paid $9,000.

Frankfort and New Lenox township boards plan to raise their assessors' salaries to $6,000.

With more building and improvements the assessors have found they have more work to do while the compensation, in comparison, gets less. In many townships the job of assessor has gone begging.

The town boards will base their population figures on information they can obtain from various reliable sources, including postoffices, schools and utility firms records.

In a special census taken in New Lenox Township in 1966 the count was some 8,900. It is estimated there are some 11,000 or 12,000 residents there now.

Frankfort Township had a special census in 1965 and the count was around the 8,000 mark and it is estimated that it is well over 9,000 now.

The figures settled upon by the town boards will have official status as far as the state is concerned and can be used by the towns in sharing the motor fuel tax collected by the state. This tax is shared.

Band Boosters Conduct First Year Meeting

NEW LENOX -- First meeting of the LincolnWay Band Boosters for the 1969-70 school year was held Oct. 22 in the all-purpose room at the school.

Movies were shown of the Oak Lawn football game, the Manhattan parade, and grade school band day.

The decal chairmanship was accepted by Glenn Coburn, assisted by Robert Keener of Frankfort, Warren Pachol of Mokena, Robert Tilton of New Lenox, and Mrs. Fred Richards of Manhattan.

Publicity for the year will be handled by Howard Cryer, assisted by Mrs. Dorie Cryer.

Class-A Lunch To Be Started

LOCKPORT -- The District 205 Board of Education has directed the superintendent, Harold Scholle, to install a "class-A" lunch program beginning with the second semester.

In order to comply with HB 2601, recently passed by the state, all school districts must provide a free lunch daily for children who would not otherwise be able to afford it. If the school is to meet the law and qualify for state reimbursement, it must serve a "Class-A" lunch. The district will receive 34-cent per child in reimbursement.

In other business, the board agreed to underwrite any financial obligations that may arise from the musical to be presented at Lockport West in the spring. There are no problems anticipated, but in case ticket sales do not cover expenses, or other problems arise, the board will assist financially, not

Fete Leaders

LOCKPORT -- Miss Dorothea Eisenbrandt of the Lockport Loyal 4-H'ers was among the almost 200 volunteer leaders honored recently at the 35th Annual Will County 4-H Leaders Recognition Banquet.

Miss Eisenbrandt received her 30-year pin. Mrs. George Eisenbrandt was recognized for more than 36 years in 4-H work and is a member of the Lockport Loyal 4-H'ers as are Gerry Brady and Maureen Kennedy, both of Lockport, who received pins as 4-H graduates.

to exceed $500.

The board rejected the recommendation of the executive board of the Special Education Co-Operative, regarding the renovation of the property recently purchased for special ed. uses. Board member Wilson stated that their rejection was based on the fact that the original concept has been entirely changed.

Superintendent Scholle reminded those present of the upcoming referendum and urged them to "cast their conscience in support of education."

See Fire Stations

LOCKPORT -- Cub scouts from Den Three, Pack 61, visited the Northwest Homer and Lockport fire department stations during Fire Prevention Week.

Jack Counter, Den Dad, accompanied Craig Gardner, Audie Damaska, Michael Bozuch, Michael Hoffmeyer, Steve Counter and Jay Gianerini on their tour.

At the boys regular monthly meeting they decorated pumpkins and were then served hot chocolate and donuts. Folklore is the November theme for the Cubs and all Dens are preparing for their meeting Nov. 20.

Den Mother Charlene Counter oversees the activities of the Cubs in cooperation with her husband, Den Dad, Jack Counter.

Mrs. J. Feigl is Den Mother Coach and publicity chairman.

Most color television sets give you a good picture to look at. (That's something you sort of expect).
But a Packard Bell color television set gives you something more to look at.
A beautiful cabinet.
When Packard Bell makes a cabinet, they use old-world construction methods to put it together. So it stays together.
And they finish every set by hand.

looks, it has to work well. And it does.
Packard Bell has some of the most advanced features in color television today.
Like Instant Action picture. And Automatic Frequency Control.
But that's not all. When you come in to see these sets, we have a surprise for you.
The price.
With all they give you, Packard Bell could charge more than their competitors.
They could. But they don't.

Red Cross Offers Voices From Home

SOUTHWEST -- This year at Christmas hundreds of American servicemen, serving all parts of the world, will receive special tape - recorded messages from families and friends through the "Voices from Home" project sponsored by the American Red Cross.

Foreign students who attend schools here, and families of Peace Corps volunteers are also invited to take advantage of the free service.

Red Cross supplies the seven minute tape, recorder and the mailing envelope free of charge. Volunteers operate the simple-to-use recorders, and even care for the children and family pet, which some military families bring along to "voice" their special greetings to GI's away from home.

Through the co-operation of the Merchant's Association of Dixie Square, recording facilities will be located at Wonderfall Court in the Dixie Square Shopping Center, 15201 Dixie Hwy., Dec. 8 to 13. Hours will be daily from 11 a.m. to closing.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Uzmack of Tinley Park, chairmen of this year's "Voices from Home" project for the South Cook Region, encourage all families to take this opportunity to send a "touch of home" to their GI's who will be away for Christmas.

For other recording schedule information, contact the Red Cross office, 331-1075.

ANY INTEREST in the following for the Illinois Constitutional Assembly: The main duty of government is to control the living concentration of people. Assure minimum housing, food & services to
all. A person can live below
if it wishes but the wealth will be available. AND in the pre...amble write: The most precious gift, treasure, wealth & security, intelligence can give civilization (way better than frankincense, incense & myrrh) is absolute control of reproduction (biological & spiritual). And as communications is a large part of intelligence. The citizen should be taught at an early age to recognize it's loss and sacrifice for it. The child at talking age should hear the parable bubbles from whence cometh its spirit to preserve its life & intelligence on earth.
Through the ages by loss of communications, individual criticism was cut off. Hence persons were able to make themselves God, God's protector, King, Savior of the world and representative dictator. Cecil Kraft, 385 N.

costly damage even in low-speed accidents.

Mertz said a look at 1970 models showed manufacturers were continuing a race to see whose product offered "the most exotic package of forbidden thrills and swash-buckling adventure."

William Haddon Jr., president of Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, showed a research film intended to demonstrate that new cars were "remarkably delicate," that their "largely cosmetic bumpers" were ineffective even in low-speed crashes and that automobiles incurred great damage even in wrecks at jogging and walking speeds.

Dean W. Jaffers, president of Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co., said his company is hiking its rates 50 per cent for 1970 superpowered cars because they produce 56 per cent more losses than standard-powered cars.

Byron J. Nichols, Chrysler Corp.'s vice president for marketing, said the company had invested millions and much effort in the interests of auto repair. Better bumpers, he said, would merely raise the deceleration level, increasing the degree of personal injuries for occupants.
